Who Am I?
An Evolutionary Parable

ROLE OF YOUTH

by Connie Barlow                 www.thegreatstory.org

FOR PERFORMANCE, READ THE BOLD PARTS

"Who am I in a school of a thousand students?"

"Who are you in a galaxy of a hundred billion stars?"

"Who am I in a world of six thousand million people?"

"Who are you in a cosmos of a hundred billion galaxies?"

  * * *

"Who am I whose ancestors sailed away from their homeland?"

"Who are you whose ancestors crawled out of the sea?"

"Who am I whose ancestors learned to till the soil?"

"Who are you whose ancestors learned to breathe the air?"

  * * *

"Who am I in a body made of mortal flesh?"

"Who are you as flesh made of immortal stardust?"

"Who am I with a mind aching for answers?"

"Who are you as Universe delighting in questions?"
FOR PERFORMANCE, READ THE BOLD PARTS

“Who am I in a school of a thousand students?”

“Who are you in a galaxy of a hundred billion stars?”

“Who am I in a world of six thousand million people?”

“Who are you in a cosmos of a hundred billion galaxies?”

* * *

“Who am I whose ancestors sailed away from their homeland?”

“Who are you whose ancestors crawled out of the sea?”

“Who am I whose ancestors learned to till the soil?”

“Who are you whose ancestors learned to breathe the air?”

* * *

“Who am I in a body made of mortal flesh?”

“Who are you as flesh made of immortal stardust?”

“Who am I with a mind aching for answers?”

“Who are you as Universe delighting in questions?”